Tribhuvan Deo is an artist, who has a strong interest in contemporary and indigenous art. A passionate mountain-biker, he finds inspiration in the sparsely populated hillsides of Ladakh, Lahaul and Spiti Valley's. The raw beauty of the mountains and the age-old wisdom they possess, inspires Deo to pick up his brush and paint, scenes drenched in tertiary shades of browns and blacks, earth reds and skies bleached of blue. He also travels to Odisha, where the slow-moving Brahmaputra makes patterns on the alluvial soil that then find expression on canvas or handmade paper. A mid-career artist, Deo is working towards a solo exhibition and book that will catalogue the various stages of his artistic career.
